How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

THE LYRIC POET'S APOLOGY.

I strive to probe to other hearts and find
I do but fret the phantom of mine own;
I strain to paint great nature, and my mind
But images itself in every zone.
The lesson learned, I sing life's woven lay
In syllables of self and can no other way.
—Richard Burton in Harper's Weekly.

A Puzzled Mother.

"It takes a 14-year-old boy to see through his mother," laughed such a mother the other day. "Last week I planned to take a friend to the theater and her only free night was Thursday Now, I often take my boy to see a play, but I make it a rule it shall not be on a night preceding a school day. So on this occasion I explained to my son that he could not go, and as an offset to his disappointment arranged an outing for the Saturday following. He acquiesced most dutifully and beautifully, and the matter rested. Thursday came, and as the afternoon waned, I found that my son was to be all alone part of the evening, and I began to wish that he was going with us. At last I made up my mind, and calling him said:

"I think, after all, you may go tonight You are going to be alone, and I know you always count upon these trips to the theater. So if you'll study hard till dinner you shall be of the party."

"That's all right, mother," rpplied the young scamp with a laugh. 'I knew you'd weaken at the last, so I've managed my lessons, and I'm all ready.' And now I'm alternately deploring my want of strength and wondering how to preserve a semblance of authority with so shrewd a son."—New York Times.

The Strain on the Eye.

There is no reason why a muscle or muscles of the eye should not fag out just as the muscles elsewhere do. Let one bear a weight all day long, does he not attribute his consequent headache to the heavy burden he has borne? It seems without elaborate thinking we could conceive of the results following upon prolonged use of the eye. Nature has done all she could to protect and prolong the usefulness of the eye.

No earthly architect ever yet planned a structure that would not yield, crumble and fall, and the house human, so exquisitely uplifted in curious and mysterious ways, falls and returns to dust more rapidly and surely than need be, for the reason that we do not realize how much one part is sustained or overthrown by another. One tiny muscle is potent enough to disturb the whole economy, especially if intercurrent diseases exist in addition to "eye strain."—Philadelphia Record.

The Vibration of Steamers.

The discomfort of the excessive vibration on board the fast sailing ocean steamers has increased so much with the increase in the speed of travel that investigations have been made into the subject with a view of modifying the inconvenience caused to passengers. The usual idea is that this vibration is due to the action of the powerful engines. This is apparently erroneous, for it is now found that the cause consists solely in the unison between the number of revolutions of the engines and the number of vibrations of the ship The smaller the length of the ship the greater is the number per unit of its vibrations, and the longer the steamer the greater is the corresponding time of its vibrations.—New York Telegram.

Ambiguous.

"I congratulate you Mrs. Familias on your husband's safe return."

"Thank you, Mr Cardine. It's no joke to have the man of one's family on a steamer a week overdue in December."

"I had made up my mind that if he went down I would write you a letter of condolence."

"That was kind of you. What were you going to tell me, Mr. Cardine?"

"Well, I wanted to express my appreciation of him, and lots of sympathy and encouragement for you, and I had about made up my mind just to say 'There's as good fish in the sea as ever were caught,' and let you take it either way."—Life.

An English Tribute to Emerson.

When the celebrated Arthur Stanley dean of Westminster, had finished his visit here in the year 1878, he was asked about the American pulpit. He said in reply that he had of course availed himself of every opportunity to hear the American preachers He had heard preachers of eminence, he said, in almost every communion. "But it mattered not what was the name of the communion, the preacher," he said "was always Waldo Emerson."—Edward E. Hale's Address.

OLD INSTRUMENTS.

A BROOKLYN DEALER WHO HAS AN INTERESTING PAIR.

A Lute That Is One Hundred and Twelve Years Old—A Lyre That Has Existed Nearly as Long—Histories of Various String Instruments.

William V. Pezzoni has on exhibition in a window in Brooklyn a lute that is 112 years old. It is said to be the only one of its kind in existence. From a printed strip of paper in the interior of the instrument it is learned that it was made by Renault & Chatelain of Braque street, Paris, in 1781.

The lute is as old as the hills. It is mentioned several times in the Bible. Jubal, said by historians to have been the first musician, was the inventor of it, as he was of the organ and all string instruments. He flourished about 1,300 years before the deluge and was the first to observe that strings of different sizes or lengths when stretched produced various sounds.

In the earliest ages of Egypt instruments having the same general form as the harp, lyre and guitar of modern times were common, as the discoveries of travelers in that country have proved. The ancients had many other stringed instruments, but these three classes were the principal ones.

The lyre is supposed to be more ancient than the harp. A very old painting at Beni-Hassan in Egypt represents the arrival of some foreigners in that country supposed to be Joseph's brethren. One of them holds a lyre having four strings.

The guitar is an improvement on the lyre. It is seldom found sculptured in the monuments of Greece and Rome, as the people did not consider the instrument sufficiently dignified to so symbolize it, which accounts for its not appearing in the ruins of those proud cities. It was, however, one of the most ancient musical instruments of Egypt.

Some historians are of the opinion that Hermes, one of the Egyptian councilors, invented the three stringed lyre. These strings gave forth three sounds—grave, mean and acute—representing respectively winter, spring and summer. The Egyptians and the Greeks, as is well known, divided the year only into three seasons,

The lute was adopted by the Arabs from Persia and reached the west about the time of the crusaders. In the psalms of David it is spoken of as the machalath, and it is said to have been used by the children of Israel in their rejoicings after the overthrow of Pharaoh's host. The modern Egyptian lute is a direct descendant of the Arabic lute. It has seven pairs of strings and is played by a plectrum. When frets are employed, they are disposed of according to the Arabic scale of 17 intervals in the octave, consisting of 12 limmas—an interval rather less than a semitone. There are also five commas, which are very small, but quite recognizable as regards difference of pitch.

The large double necked lute has two sets of tuning pegs, the lower set for the finger board and the higher for the diapason strings. This style lute was known as the theorbo. Its height varied from 3 feet 6 inches to 5 feet. Very deep notes were produced from it. Another lute somewhat differently formed was known as the archlute. Both have, however, long since given away to the violoncello and double bass. Handel wrote a part for a theorbo in 1720. After this date the lute appears no more in orchestral scores. It remained, however, in private use until the close of the century.

Venere of Padua, celebrated as a maker of lutes, flourished in 1630. His instruments were highly ornamental and were admired for their beauty, ivory, mother of pearl and tortoise shell being used in decorating them. The present direction of musical taste and composition is adverse to the cultivation of such tenderly sensitive timber as the lute possessed. The instrument has now become an object of research for collections and museums. It was a favorite instrument of music in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, but declined in the eighteenth century. The great J. S. Bach wrote a partita for it, which still remains in manuscript. The latest engraved publication for the lute is 1760.

Mr. Pezzoni was placed in the possession of the lute a short time ago by Signor Guiseppe Vitale, a prominent Brooklyn musician, who obtained it at a pawnbroker's sale. It is a very valuable instrument, although it was sadly in need of repair when it came into Mr. Pezzoni's hands. He has been offered sums for it varying from $3 to $300, but it is not for sale.

The lute is a handsome one. The body is pear shaped. It is beautifully inlaid with ivory and pearl. The neck is 28 inches long. The fingerboard, containing 17 frets, is 12¼ inches long, and the body, with a three inch sound hole, is 15¼ inches long. The base of the instrument is 4¼ inches deep, while at the neck it is 3 inches. It has 16 strings, 8 of which are designed for the bass. The head, or nut, is divided into two sections and contains the pegs, or keys. One of these sections is 1⅔ inches long and the other 1¼ inches. The latter is used for the open bass strings, which are above and independent of the fingerboard. Four of the middle strings are double and are formed from very fine wire. The remaining strings are of silk wound with copper wire.—New York World.

California Names Ending In O.

Attention has not been called, we believe, to one peculiarity—that is, the number of geographical names in California which end with o. In this respect this state must be awarded the championship medal, as a brief inspection of any list of names of places will show. First, among the 58 counties of California there are no less than 14 which end with the round letter. They are El Dorado, Fresno, Inyo, Mendocino, Mono, Sacramento, San Benito, San Bernardino, San Diego, San Francisco, San Luis Obispo, San Mateo, Solano and Yolo. It is to be observed that only a portion of these are named from masculine saints in the Spanish calendar, Fresno, Inyo, Mono, Solano and others being presumably Indian names, though the termination may have been put on by the early Spanish settlers. When we come to towns in California whose names end in o, their name is legion. There are, among others, Acampo, Alamo, Bernardo, Blanco, Cahto, Capistrano, Decoto, Echo, El Casco, Fruto, Igo, Jacinto, Largo, Llano, Milo, Moreno, Navarro, Nicasio, Ono, Palermo, Philo, Rialto, Sausalito, Tropico, Venado and Volcano.

In the compilation of this imperfect catalogue the towns and cities named for saints have been omitted, as the list would be entirely too long, running from San Antonio through most of the letters of the alphabet to San Ysidro. There is said to be a reason for all things, and it is not unlikely that the names given by the early and pious Spanish settlers to their settlements may have sounded pleasant to the gringos who came after them and have influenced them, perhaps unconsciously, to confer upon their own mining camps and villages and towns names ending with the letter o.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Touch of Fellow Feeling.

"We do indeed have some queer experiences," said the trained nurse, taking off her white cap and giving its dainty bow a few deft, reconstructing touches, "and many interesting and diverting episodes also. Not long ago I was sent for to attend a minister's wife and must confess that I responded to the call with some trepidation and apprehension. It was my first experience in a minister's family, and I was afraid that my patient might ask me to pray with her or read the Bible to her, which most excellent offices would be wholly out of my line and would cause me much embarrassment.

"When I reached my post of duty, I found the minister's wife suffering a great deal, and my first office was to make and apply a mustard plaster. I concocted it with a generous and conscientious hand, and it must have been pretty warm, for several seconds after I had deferentially applied the mustard plaster on the person of the minister's wife she groaned dismally. Leaning over her to discover whether her pain had increased, I heard her murmur softly but energetically:

"'Oh, jiminy! It's too hot! I can't stand it!'

"Perhaps you can imagine how my heart leaped toward the dear woman at this touch of nature. We had a delightful time together when she got better. She was a good woman, too, but like the rest of us she had her favorite ejaculations under compelling circumstances."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Old Time Cures.

In mediæval times if a child did not learn to walk with readiness the wise wizard would direct it to creep through a blackberry bush which had the canes bent down to the earth and rooted by their tips. At the present it would be as pleasant and efficacious for the tardy toddler to creep among a few barbed wire fences, and it would be more in keeping with the keen spirit of this age of wire.

One of the leading sources of income to the old herbalist was the compounding of love powders for despondent swains and heartsick maidens. If a powder would not bring the desired relief, various juices of roots and herbs were mingled in a potion and sold as the love phial. Here is an old recipe: "Mistletoe berries (not exceeding nine in number) are steeped in an equal mixture of wine, beer, vinegar and honey.

"This taken on an empty stomach before going to bed will cause dreams of your future destiny (provided you retire before 12 o'clock) either on Christmas eve or on the first and third of a new moon." Perhaps as a lingering remnant of this absurdity there is a current notion in some parts of the world today that a whole mince pie eaten at midnight will cause the reappearance of long departed friends, not to mention the family physician and the more interested members of the household.—Chautauquan.

Getting on a Street Car.

Did you ever notice a man who is going to get on a street car while it is in motion? He comes down off the sidewalk and stands along the side of the track quietly till the car almost reaches him. Then he walks ahead a few feet and prances about like a string haltered horse, awkward as a Shanghai rooster that wants to fight. Just as the car reaches him he takes two or three steps sideways, and at last, confused as a schoolboy, grasps the hand rail and clings on like a man who is drowning.—Colorado Sun.

A Matter of Time.

Wagleigh—How did you like that dinner service I sent you today, dear?

Mrs. Wagleigh—Oh, it is perfectly lovely, but there are only 91 pieces in it, and you know the set mamma has consists of 117 pieces.

Wagleigh—Well, dear, don't let that worry you. After Bridget has handled it for a week or so it will be in a good many more pieces than that.—Exchange.

Only One Week.

"Did you know dis is mamma's birfday?" asked little Bessie of the caller.

"No. Is it?"

"Yes, and my birfday is next Monday. Mamma is a week older dan me."—Harper's Bazar.

SONOMA, JULY 29, 1893.

H. H. GRANICE ..... EDITOR

THE fruit growers at last have caught a glimpse of a silver lining to the cloud which has been hanging over their industry for the last few weeks, says the Santa Rosa Democrat. Cashier Frank Brush says that the National Bank will back the Cutting Company's cannery in that city, and that unless something unforseen occurred the cannery would be opened for business as soon as the fruit is ready to be gathered. This movement is in a line with the predictions that the strained financial condition would soon give place to a confident feeling among our banks, and that the fruit would undoubtedly be taken care of when ready for the harvest. It has also been suggested that the National Bank's stand will induce others to follow this excellent example. The reasoning which leads up to such a conclusion is cogent, and the growers may congratulate themselves on the turn affairs have taken. We have been reliably informed that the Bank of California has notified its country correspondents that any reasonable assistance would be afforded in harvesting the fruit crop.

NO GREAT ENTERPRISE in California can be successful without the assistance of the interior press, and the city paper that believes the Winter Fair will be held without the moral, intellectual and physical aid of the great engine is very much mistaken. We venture to say that the journal to which some of our esteemed contemporaries sneeringly refer as a "hay seed weekly" has more influence in its field in a fortnight than its detractors have in a year. For that reason, and some others, the Post has been anxious to enlist the services of the interior papers on behalf of the Winter Exposition.—Evening Post.

REMINGTON.

Glen Ellen, July 26th, 1893.

A Santa Rosa man who was fishing out in the Laguna tells a remarkable story of porcine enterprise as seen by him there. He says he saw a long-legged old sow, one that resembles the razor-back Bill Nye talks about, swim into the Laguna. She swam along with head erect for a few rods and then dived out of sight. When she came up she had a big carp in her mouth and was grinding the life out of it with her teeth. Then she went to shore and laid it before her litter of pigs and the little chaps went for the fish with great animation. The Santa Rosa man says he never saw anything like it and he is sure that sow supports her family fishing.—Democrat.

How is This?

Something unique even in these days of mammoth premium offers, it is the latest effort of Stafford's Magazine, a New York monthly of home and general reading.

The proposition is to send the Magazine one year for one dollar, the regular subscription price; and in addition to send each subscriber fifty-two complete novels during the twelve months; one each week.

Think of it. You receive a new and complete novel, by mail, post paid, every week for fifty-two weeks, and in addition you get the magazine once a month, for twelve months, all for one dollar. It is an offer which the publishers can only afford to make in the confident expectations of getting a hundred thousand new subscribers. Among the authors in the coming series are, Wilkie Collins, Walter Besant, Mrs. Oliphant, Mary Cecil Hay, Florence Marryat, Anthony Trollope, A. Conan Doyle, Miss Braddon, Captain Marryat, Miss Thackery and Jules Verne. If you wish to take advantage of this unusual opportunity, send one dollar for Stafford's Magazine, one year. Your first copy of the magazine and your first number of the fifty-two novels (one each week) which you are to receive during the year will be sent you by return mail. Remit by P. O. America's Great Danger

AN ENGLISH COMMENTARY.

Said an eminent English scientist recently: "The danger that confronts the great American people to-day is not the possible adoption of a wrong financial policy for the nation, or the spread of socialism, or the increase of corruption among public men. All these are bad enough, to be sure, but they are as nothing compared to the terrible national disease—I had almost said national crime—of overwork. The mad rush for wealth is set at a killing pace, and thousands fall by the way every year.

You are likely to be one of the victims!

How do we know? Because it is the exception to find a man or woman of adult age in perfect health. Nervous Disorders are spreading with fearful rapidity. Among the symptoms, are—Backache, Biliousness, Cold Hands and Feet, Dizziness, Hot Flashes, Fluttering Sensation, Failing, Headache, Hysteria, Irritability of the Heart, Melancholy, Failing Memory, Palpitation, Rheumatism, Shirt Breath, Sleeplessness, Nervous Dyspepsia, Sexual Debility, Fits, etc.

REV. C. A. CARROLL, pastor First Baptist Church, Yellow Springs, O., writes as follows: "I have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for the past six months. I find it acts like a charm on the whole nervous system. I have not found its equal in giving immediate relief. Dr. Miles' Little Nerve and Liver Pills only need a trial and they will recommend themselves to be the best pills in the market."

"For five years I have suffered from Nervous Prostration, I was unable to work or sleep. The first dose of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine gave me relief, and one thousand dollars would not cover the good it has done me."—JOHN MINCHER, Youngstown, Ohio.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is unsquailed in CURING Nervous Diseases. It contains no opiates or dangerous drugs. Sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

J. B. Morris and M. K. Cady appeared before the Union High School Board of Trustees, last Wednesday, and urged the removal of the school from its present quarters to the old college building, which is located one-half-mile from the center of town. The argument used by the former why the removal should be made was because the people favored the change. We deny this. So far we have found but two persons who are in favor of buying the old concern. These two are Mr. Morris and his co-worker Mr. Cady. Should the scheme carry the taxpayers of Sonoma Township would have a big white elephant on their hands. The building is too large and too unwieldy for High School purposes, and would cost the taxpayer a big round sum of money to put it in proper shape and keep it in repair. Of course we have no objection to the sale of the building for a cannery or a shoe factory as that is about what it is suitable for, but we do object to having the building foisted upon a community for a High School who will learn sooner or later that they have no use for such a building. The building of an annex to the Grammar school house would be the proper thing.

THAT NEW CITY HALL.

What's the Matter With the People of Sonoma, Anyhow?

Just now the proposition that is agitating the minds of the people of Sonoma to the exclusion of all other subjects is that of building a new City Hall. For several months the City Trustees have been wrestling with the proposition and have went so far as to invite bids for constructing the same.

As usual in this town, and in keeping with the characteristics of its people, when any public improvement is projected—such as better sewers, street lights, better water facilities—a howl has gone up against the proposition.

There are people in this town that don't want a Plaza, they don't want water works, they don't want light, they don't want sewers, they don't want a City Hall, they don't want to bond the town. In short they don't want anything. The result has been that this kicking and bucking against every public improvement has retarded the growth of the place and made it what it is to-day, a little old one-horse town.

If the local journal has the temerity to agitate or suggest any kind of public improvement its offending editor is accused of trying to run the town. If some citizen more enterprising than his fellows is foolish enough to waste his time and breath in an endeavor to enlist interest in some business or manufacturing project that will give employment to our idle boys and girls, he is looked upon with suspicion, accused of some sinister motive and finally sat down upon.

So it is with the City Trustees. These are selected from among our business men by the people of Sonoma to manage the affairs of the city. They receive no compensation for their services and devote much valuable time to public affairs. Having accepted the trust they make a study of the wants of their town. They discover the sewerage in bad, that the health and the lives of the people of the town are in jeopardy and something must be done to remedy the evil. But the average Sonoma citizen is suspicious. He sees a scheme in this improvement which has for its object the betterment of the health of the community and by vigorous kicking, in which he is joined by people who ought to know better, succeeds in frightening the City Dads out of their wits, and the project dies before it is born, and more business is in sight for the doctor, and perhaps the grave digger, the undertaker and the tombstone man may come in for their increase of trade.

And thus it goes. The question of electric light is agitated by the City Fathers. The man that don't want a system of sewerage don't see any sense in lighting the town with electricity. Hasn't Sonoma got along without these new-fangled notions for the past fifty years and what's the use of introducing such an innovation on the customs of our people. Avast! The City Trustees are again frightened and the electric spark is extinguished before it is kindled and the town is left in total darkness after nightfall just as it used to be a half a century ago.

The Trustees, knowing that this city, notwithstanding it has some half-dozen of the finest flowing artesian wells in the State, has a very primitive system of water works, and to relieve its citizens from an outrageous insurance rate, make an effort to improve the service. Again a howl goes up. This is another scheme. We don't want water. Wow! Ain't there plenty in the wells, and, like the other projects, the water proposition is abandoned and our people go on paying at least 40 per cent more for insurance, the increased rate of which would pay for a first-class water works system in a few years.

Then comes the proposition to build a new City Hall to take the place of that ramshackle monstrosity ycleped the City Pavilion, which now occupies one of the most commanding locations in town. This miserable architectural eye-sore is the butt of every visitor to our city, and the City Trustees in order to remove the nuisance and to relieve a long-suffering community have a project on foot to build a structure that will be a credit to the town and at the same time provide a proper meeting place for our Trustees, an engine house for our fire apparatus and a jail for the criminal element.

Next Wednesday they will meet to take final action in the matter. It is safe to assume, however, that the average Sonoma citizen who does not want a Fire Department, who does not want a sewer system, who does not want an electric light plant, who does not want an improved water works system and who does not want anything, will be there to knock out this latest projected improvement. What do people want to waste money on fine houses for anyhow. Don't the "Injuns" live out doors. Haven't we got along lo! these many moons without a Jail and without a City Hall. Don't let us spend money on such a foolish proposition. Better still, let us us stop eatin' and wearin' clothes in Sonoma and then we won't have to spend any money at all.

A Desirable Residence Place.

A number of business men of San Francisco, who have their homes in Sonoma and vicinity, make daily trips to and fro over the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway. They leave Sonoma in the morning and arrive at their spective places of business in the city at a little after 9 o'clock, refreshed and recuperated after a pleasant morning's journey of two hours. At 5 P. M. they take the return train for Sonoma, where they arrive a little after 7 o'clock, feeling as though they had been off on a pleasure jaunt for the day instead of being tied down to business for eight hours. Sonoma Valley is one of the most healthy and beautiful suburbs of San Francisco and it is a wonder that more of its business and professional men do not locate their homes here. The climate is delightful, the scenery grand, land is cheap, rents are reasonable and the fare charged by the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway, if a regular monthly ticket is taken, is only about 25 cents each way. There has been some talk of late among the officials of the Donahue road of reducing the time considerably between Sonoma and San Francisco, in which event we may reasonably expect to see a large increase of travel between the two places, as that is the only drawback toward Sonoma Valley becoming the most attractive suburb of the metropolis of the Pacific.

The High School.

At a meeting of the Union High School Board of Trustees, held in this place last Wednesday, Miss Georgia Reed, a graduate of the State University, was elected assistant teacher. Miss Reed will teach Latin, English and history, while Prof. Abshire will instruct the students in mathematics and science. The High School will open next Monday in the Sonoma public school building. At the present time the High School Board are agitating better accommodations for the school and will no doubt build an annex to the public school building in this place for High School purposes. In the meantime Prof. Abshire and his assistant will work together in this manner. From 2 o'clock till 4 o'clock in the afternoon one teacher will use the primary room for a class room. From 1 o'clock till 2 o'clock a chemistry class will be conducted in the laboratory. In this way the teachers will be seperate in the afternoon. In the forenoon both will work together in the same room—that is to say, one will conduct a class in English in one end of the room, while the other will instruct a class in mathematics at the other end. The Board before adjourning instructed the Principal to make out a list of apparatus and chemicals needed in the laboratory and they will be ordered immediately.

Adventure With Bears in Early Days.

Hugh Patton came over from his home in Napa on a visit to his niece Mrs. Millie Bates, last Saturday. Mr. Patton's visit will recall to the minds of several old residents of Sonoma an exciting adventure he had way back in the early fifties, when he resided with his brother on his mountain farm near Glen Ellen. One dark winter's night as the brothers were setting in their cabin home they heard a strange noise in the vicinity of the chicken yard. Mr. Patton left the cabin to investigate, and upon reaching the chicken house he was startled with being confronted by two full-grown bears. Not being loaded for bear he beat a hasty retreat, but before he could reach his cabin he was headed off by the bears and sought to get out of harms way by climbing a tree. Before he succeeded in getting out of reach, however, one of the animals, standing upon its hind feet, made a grab at him with one of its fore paws and caught him by the heel of the right foot, lacerating the flesh in a shocking manner. His yells for assistance brought his brother to the rescue with a rifle, a shot from which caused the animals to beat a hasty retreat. He was assisted to his cabin by his brother and was laid up for several months. From that day to this, Mr. Patton, who is now 83 years of age, has kept out of the way of big game.

Adolf Mines, the well-known horse man, has again returned to Sonoma after and extended visit to the World's Fair and other places of interest. Mr. Mines, who is said to be one of the best race horse drivers in the State has been engaged to drive at the Petaluma Fair, which takes place next month.

An interesting young lady correspondent of the Santa Rosa Republican says: I had really thought to go into retirement for a year or so, but after all the propensity to gossip is too strong in the average woman to be put down, and of course I'm an average woman. Well, what of it? Gossip isn't necessarily bad or unpleasant, bless you! It can be as sweet and entertaining as aught else that's light and airy. A body dosen't always want to think or talk about long-faced, spectacled subjects, surely. Now and then gossip comes as agreeably as a breeze from old ocean of a summer's day. The crabbed, sour-souled mortals who never babble are blots on the fair pages of creation.

Now that bananas are so cheap one can make a delicious custard. The following is the receipt: Put one quart of sweet milk in a double boiler over the fire. Beat four eggs with an egg beater and add three tablespoons of sugar. When the milk is scalding hot stir in the eggs and keep stirring all the while until it thickens. Then remove from the fire, set it away to partly cool and flavor with lemon or vanilla. Then peel and slice thin six ripe bananas and put in a handsome dish, then pour the custard over them and set it in an icebox until ready to use. Serve cold.

WHERE IS BERTIE CLOUGH?

One Hundred Dollars for Any One Who Can Answer the Question.

On the night of May 7th last, Frank Burton Clough, an inmate of the Home for Feeble Minded, Glen Ellen, disappeared from that institution, and up to the present time no clew as to his whereabouts has been obtained by Dr. Osborne, the Superintendent, who has spent both time and money in a fruitless search for the missing boy. He is of feeble mind, about 17 years old and very large for his age. He is of light complexion and when he left the Home was dressed in brown and gray striped coat and pants. Dr. Osborne offers a reward of $100 for information that will lead to his reclamation.

The Life of Blaine.

As Norwich, Conn., had the honor of publishing to the world Mr. Blaine's great historical work, "Twenty Years of Congress," so Norwich is to have the honor of giving to the world the only authorized story of his life. President Haskell of the Henry Bill Publishing Company has made arrangements with Gail Hamilton for the immediate preparation of the Life of James G. Blaine.

Gail Hamilton has for years been a member of the Blaine family. She has known the inner and outer life of the man who stood for years as the foremost American statesman and political leader. She had his respect and confidence; she was made by him his literary executor, and to her care were confided his papers, letters and all his historical and biographical remains. From this combination of a great subject and a great writer a great book will result. Nothing else would be a reasonable supposition. See adv. in another column.

THE BARN-BURNER.

Something About His Personal History.

Chas. Taylor, the tramp who set fire to L. M. Johannsen's barn near this place, one day last June, has a history that would make a book as interesting as some of the yellow-covered dime novels, says a special Santa Rosa correspondent of the Examiner. When arrested and brought to the jail Taylor expressed cool contempt for the officers, refused to plead "guilty" or "not guilty," and said the Judge could do what he pleased with him. He said he was born in Ludlow, England.

District Attorney Seawell wrote to the Mayor of Ludlow and the other day received a letter from him. From the letter it was learned that Taylor once had a responsible position in that city, that he was a young man of good promise and was engaged to be married to the only daughter of a rich man, prominent in official circles there. Preparations were made for the wedding, and Taylor had a neat cottage handsomely furnished for his bride. A few days before the wedding was to occur she jilted him. About that time his father took to strong drink, abused his family, broke up his home and drowned himself. His own troubles and those of his family caused Taylor to become despondent. He become a drunkard.

A friend paid his passage to America, and since coming to this country he has lived in nearly every State in the Union. The destruction of his father's home and the ruination of his prospects unbalanced his mind, and he seems wholly indifferent to his fall. He will be tried on the insanity charge and will probably be sent to the Napa Asylum.

The Conductor's Large Acquaintance.

"When I was out in Chicago at the opening of the World's fair," said a friend of mine, "I had occasion to make a call on some old acquaintances on the West Side. The streets in that portion of the city had many of them the baptismal names of women, and as I lived there at one time the calling of them by the car conductor sounded familiar to me, although it seemed to puzzle an old countryman on board, who was doubtless visiting Chicago for the first time. There were a number of ladies among the passengers, and as the conductor called out 'Elizabeth' the car stopped, and one of them got off. A few squares farther and there was the call 'Ada,' followed by a stop and the exit of another lady.

"The old countryman began to look interested, and when the next call came, 'May,' and he saw a lady gather up her bundles and walk down the aisle, he had a puzzed air. In quick succession there came 'Pauline,' 'Roberta' and 'Augusta,' followed by the departure of a passenger. The old man could not stand it any longer. His eyes bulged out, and making a rush for the platform he said in a stage whisper to the conductor, 'Great snakes, mister, do you know the names of all the women folks in this big town?'

"He had been under the impression that each woman who left the car answered to the name that was called out."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Interesting People.

"What makes a person interesting?" It cannot be intellectual brilliancy, for we have all known men whose minds were stored with the best thought of the world, yet wholly failed to interest us; women whose brains were developed by the widest culture, yet were unable to appear other than dry as dust catalogues of knowledge. Think of the people who interest you and study their qualities, and how few you find possessing just the same traits.

It is all a matter of magnetic soul currents possibly. Why not? We can hardly dispute that some human bodies convey electricity much more readily than others. In almost any gathering of a dozen persons at least one will be found who possesses this strange power, the touch of whose hand can cause a sensation like that of touching an electric battery.

Is there anything impossible in the theory that souls have their electric currents, which pass more or less freely to and fro according to the individual power as conductor? Then we have but to assume that the person who interests us is one whose soul current mingles freely with our own. This is perhaps a more satisfactory explanation than the more commonly received one of animal magnetism, a quality on a lower plane and infinitely less subtle in character.—Boston Advertiser.

Earthquake Phenomena.

The wild, untamed earthquake is a terrible thing to encounter. The "quaking," the rending of the earth's surface and the other incidental accompaniments usually described are only a tithe of the real terrors of a seismic shock. To some the noise which precedes the real shock is more terror inspiring than the "quake" itself. Father Kircher describes these subterranean rumblings as "a horrid sound resembling that of an infinite number of chariots driven fiercely forward, mingled with the noise of cracking whips, neighing of horses and the cries of victory and despair on the part of the charioteers."

The sounds which preceded the great Lisbon earthquake are said to have resembled "the rumbling of empty omnibuses, chariots and barrels, the noise increasing in volume until it equaled the roar of a thousand cannons." Another peculiarity is the gyratory motion that is frequently imparted to sections of earth of greater or lesser area. At Colares in 1755 several stone houses in the lower quarters of the city were turned completely around, this, too, without rendering them uninhabitable.—St. Louis Republic.

Where Frank R. Stockton Lives.

Follow the Morristown road, past one country seat after another, for a quarter of a mile, and you come to Kitchell avenue. You are in Morristown now, but in reality nearer Madison. Turn to the left, and the first place you come to is surrounded by a low stone wall. Through iron gates a graveled roadway leisurely turns, and passing beneath huge evergreens reaches a yellow and white frame house, with a veranda in front and a tower at the farther end. Opposite the doorway, beneath the great trees, is a rustic seat and a rustic table.

Between two of the trees is swung a hammock, and in pleasant weather Frank R. Stockton lies in the hammock dictating his fanciful tales to his wife, who sits on the rustic settee. It is an ideal home for an author, situated upon an eminence commanding miles of country, removed from the main road and surrounded by a grove.—Newark Advertiser.

A New Crater In the Moon.

In a bulletin of the Astronomical society of the Pacific Professor Weinek, director of the observatory of Prague, who is a specialist in the study of the moon and to whom have been sent copies of the Lick negatives of the moon, has discovered in one of the Lick photographs a crater which is not to be found on Schmidt's map. This object, which is estimated to be about a quarter of a mile in diameter, is of sufficient size to have been seen by Schmidt, and it is difficult to imagine that the distinguished selenographer overlooked it.

Quick Action.

"Centerline sent a story to a magazine the other day and got back a queer reply. They said the story lacked rapidity in movement."

"Well, where's the queerness of that?"

"You see, he sent the MS. one day and got it back the next, and he considered that pretty rapid movement."—Kate Field's Washington.

JAY GOULD BY HIS PORTRAIT PAINTER

Observations of His Character by Hubert Herkomer.

I see that Jay Gould is dead. I painted him while I was in America in 1883, and I have been wondering if some notes on my knowledge of him would be interesting now.

He declined to sit at first, but when a friend of mine told him he had made a mistake in refusing to sit to me said, "Oh, what do you know about him?" When assured that I was a safe man, he offered to visit my studio and see this friend's portrait. He spoke little at that visit, only really asking what the portrait would cost and how long it would take to do. These questions being answered satisfactorily he said, "I guess I'll be done," and we arranged the sittings.

Fifteen minutes before the last sitting was over he said: "You have still a quarter of an hour according to our agreement. Shall you get done?" "Yes," I said, for I knew my man and took good care to be well ahead of time. He was satisfied with the result, but I am sure he was more impressed by my having been "on time" than by the artistic value of the work.

During the sittings he conversed easily and readily about his accomplished deeds.

Jay Gould probably never before or since my sittings allowed himself to be looked at as I was obliged to look at him for my painting, for I had him in strong light, while I was in shadow. This order of position it was his study to reverse in life. I saw painful expressions pass over his face as of deep seated troubles lingering in his mind, and it is a fact that he never came to the sittings without a detective following him.

He had a happy knack of thinking of methods for bringing to justice people who tried to injure him, which was well illustrated by an incident of which he told me. Having received some letters threatening his life, and as these letters were always posted in New York he arranged to have all the pillar boxes watched, and when a letter was dropped into one of them it was taken out at once and examined. It was in this way—a costly way indeed—that he ran to ground the person who wrote them.

When others wondered where his power lay, as there was so little outwardly to indicate his great ability in certain directions, I felt the true index was his fine fiber and sensitive nerve structure.

Undoubtedly he was a student of human nature and based his operations on his judgment of men more than on his judgment of events.—London Telegraph.

An Italian Doctor's Sign.

"When I was in Italy," said Frank Wallace, "a fit of curiosity took me to Trani. It is a quaint old place and is filled with enough relics of the dead past to keep you guessing for a month. While strolling leisurely along a dirty little narrow side street one day, I was attracted to the sign hanging from the front door of a physician's office. It was a wonder in its way, plainly but neatly printed, and set forth the man's ideas of business in a way that could not be mistaken. I was so struck with it that I made a copy of it. This is how it read: 'Professor Ricca. The said Professor Ricca will use for his salves in making them live snakes and large serpents, wolves, bears, monkeys, marmots, weasels and numerous other wild animals, alive and in good condition.'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Size and Street Car Fares.

Tuesday afternoon an electric car started for Covington. Every seat was taken. At Third street a woman weighing probably 200 pounds got in. A small man got up and offered her his seat. The man weighed probably 125 pounds. The woman looked at the small space he left when he arose. Then she glanced at her own figure. She thanked the man and said she would stand. The next man then stood up and she instantly sat down. She now occupied the space that had accommodated two men, and the woman next to her was uncomfortably crowded. One of the men went on the back platform and mumbled something about big people paying double fare or little people half fare.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"German Syrup"

G. Gloger, Druggist, Watertown, Wis. This is the opinion of a man who keeps a drug store, sells all medicines, comes in direct contact with the patients and their families, and knows better than anyone else how remedies sell, and what true merit they have. He hears of all the failures and successes, and can therefore judge: "I know of no medicine for Coughs, Sore Throat, or Hoarseness that had done such effective work in my family as Boschee's German Syrup. Last winter a lady called at my store, who was suffering from a very severe cold. She could hardly talk, and I told her about German Syrup and that a few doses would give relief; but she had no confidence in patent medicines. I told her to take a bottle, and if the results were not satisfactory I would make no charge for it. A few days after she called and paid for it, saying that she would never be without it in future as a few doses had given her relief."

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan., 1893.

My wife was troubled with nervousness about one year before she took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, and at that time had very severe attacks of spasm, convulsion, and pains in different parts of the body; when in this state her lower jaws would set violently and set sometimes, bite her tongue, breathe heavily, then short, then seemed to stop entirely, get a wild look in her eyes and rolling around, then stop sometimes; it would take two men to hold her in bed, otherwise her body would cramp and bend so for two hours. She took but two bottles of the Nerve Tonic, which cured her entirely of all these torments, which myself and wife gladly testify it truly had the desired effect. D. S. M'GILLIS.

Mrs. Ester Devilbiss, 354 S. Tenth street, San Jose, Cal., writes, October 1893: Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic has indeed done wonders in my part of the country. There has been bought in my neighborhood over $5 worth.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. Read proof below.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

STOCKTON, CAL., Dec. 19th, '92.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.

Gentlemen:—Having read one of your Treatise on the Horse and seeing the Spavin Cure advertised, I thought I would try it. I had one horse with a prominent Spavin of 18 months standing. I removed it with 2 bottles. Tied up one fore foot on same side the spavin was and compelling the horse to rest on lame leg while I took a surcingle and drew it across the hock or spavin until the hock or spavin got very warm with the friction, then putting on Spavin Cure. I had a mare that had a running sore on her nose for 12 or 16 months. I rubbed the Spavin Cure from her eyes down to nostrils, then from back of jaw bone down under the throat for a week. I have not seen any discharge for two months.

Yours truly, HUGH McDADE.
